The International Aviation and Space Salon (MAKS) is on the top of the list of the world's largest aviation forums. The main goal of MAKS is to demonstrate Russian high technologies and the openness of the Russian domestic market for joint projects with foreign partners.

MAKS is an air show that hundreds of thousands of spectators come to see. Russian aerobatic teams, as well as foreign ones regularly perform at the MAKS.

MAKS has a Unique Airshow Programme — sometimes called the most impressive in the world. The technical capabilities of the airfield allow pilots to push the limits of their aircraft, which makes demonstration flights particularly exciting.

MAKS will be held in Zhukovsky International Airport, Zhukovskiy, Russia. The event will showcase the latest aerospace and aerial achievements from more than 340 companies from 17 countries, including Iran.
